

Expansion for Dynamic Stress/Strain Prediction

Dynamic stress prediction at various times during transient

Expansion of real time operating response at limited sets of measurement points are used in a unique expansion process to identify the full field dynamic stress/strain in structures.